DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 1 recites "a main waveguide". It is not clear whether "a main waveguide" is the "one or more waveguides".

Claim 13 recites "a substrate" in line 5. It is not clear whether the substrate is the same with "a substrate" in line 2 of claim 1.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-10, 13-17, 20, 21, 23-28, and 31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Arii et al [USPAT 5,091,986].

Arii et al show a substrate, a main waveguide, tap waveguides, and waveguide tap couplers [see fig. 2].

In re claim 10, Aarii et al teach at column 10, lines 52-55 that the input and the output fibers are multimode type.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 11, 18, and 29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Aarii et al.

Aarii et al discloses every aspect of claimed invention except for the one or more main and tap waveguides are single mode waveguides. It would have been obvious to the ordinary skilled person in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Aarii et al's device to have a single mode main and tap waveguide for the purpose of easier and simpler manufacturing process when it is not necessary to transmit multimode light signal.

Claims 12, 19, and 30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Aarii et al.

Arii et al discloses every aspect of claimed invention except for the portion of the optical signal diverted to the tap waveguide which is less than about three percent of power in the main waveguide.

Arii et al teach at column 2, lines 41-61 that the refractive index, width, shape and the length of the optical waveguide determine the power distribution. Therefore, It would have been obvious to the ordinary skilled person in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Arii et al's device to have the portion of the optical signal diverted to the tap waveguide which is less than about three percent of power in the main waveguide as needed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 21-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by

Komatsu et al [USPAT 5,841,929].

Komatsu et al disclose light wavelength filtering circuit comprising main waveguides and tap waveguides with Y junction tap coupler.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Further references of interest are cited on Form PLO-892, which is attachment to this office action.
